Springer Open Choice @ University of Hong Kong

Faculty and students affiliated with HKU are now encouraged to use the Open Choice option to publish their articles. The published articles can be accessed immediately by anyone anywhere.

About the agreement

In March of 2010, HKU Libraries and Springer reached an agreement which allows researchers at the affiliated institutions of HKU to publish their research in Springer journals using Springer Open Choice. Springer's Open Choice program offers full and immediate open access (free to the reader) for articles that are accepted for publication after a process of rigorous peer-review. Accepted HKU articles will appear as usual in Springer print journals, and will be published electronically using open access on SpringerLink and the HKU institutional repository, The HKU Scholars Hub. The pilot project will run from March 2010 to March 2011.

Open access made easy

Most Springer journals are hybrid journals allowing this Open Choice option. A list of these journals can be found here (please login with your HKU Portal ID):

List of Open Choice enabled journals at The HKU Scholars Hub

You will be offered the open choice option once your article has been accepted for publication after peer review. The cost of having your article published with open access is covered by the agreement between HKU and Springer.

Authors' Benefits

- Publish open access in renowned journals
- Your article is available for free to everyone everywhere
- The research cycle, "research - publish - research" is much faster
- Prompt delivery to HKU Scholars Hub and PubMed Central
- No copyright transfer needed

Citation	Optical Engineering, 1994, v. 33 n. 8, p. 2760-2769 [How to Cite?]
Abstract	Two optical methods are proposed for shape measurement and defect detection of curved surfaces in the form of a complete 360- deg profile of the object. The first one is the standard structured light approach. Display of the resulting data is the emphasis of this section. The second approach uses modulated structured light with a scanning digital camera for faster and simpler data acquisition. Quantitative processing is done off-line while real-time moire produces enhanced display of the defects for qualitative analysis.
